Among the top human services severely lacking in Burundi is affordable healthcare.

The Bugarama Medical Center will be privately owned and will provide emergency, preventative, prenatal, maternity, outpatient and inpatient care to an area which is vastly underserved near the largest population center in the country. It will also provide jobs, a place for community, and health care education.

The first phase of the building's exterior has been completed with ample space to expand as demand dictates.

We need your help to complete the facility. Funds are also needed for staffing and overheads until the Center becomes self-sustaining (approximately 2-3 years). The cost for this completion phase is approximately $1.8M.
